

Dear Readers,

We are pleased to present the next issue of the scientific journal “Logistics & Transport”. It is enriched with a new section, that covers issues dealing with “Education in Logistics”. The new section has been created due to the fact that our Readers and Authors of the articles are particularly interested in this issue.

The new section of our journal is an opportunity to present achievements in the field of creating and shaping the process of education, as well as new solutions of shaping syllabuses of logistics and transport. It will also be an opportunity to exchange ideas, experience, practical solutions and possibilities of implementing innovatory methods of teaching.

In the first, enriched issue we present articles and papers, that, as we hope, will provoke discussion and exchange of experience, both among scientists and practitioners. It could be a way of formulating interesting and unique solutions, methods and tools, used in the process of education, in the field of logistics and transport all over the world.

We hope that information in the new section will be an inspiration for you and will let introduce new solutions in the area of logistics education.
